WEST STONEHAM

second Gammon Family reunion. Arthur and Cecelia Home—Sunday Visitors at John Adams'.

The second Gammon reunion was held at the old farm here Saturday, Sept. 18. The cars began to arrive shortly after seven and all went to the old home upon the good view of the lake can be obtained. Each brought lunch for self; the room was built and after they arrived, hot coffee and tea prepared and frankforts served. After all had eaten their fill of the good things provided topped off with a liberal supply of marshmallows, a business meeting was called and officers elected and several snapshots taken. Several of the party for the afternoon that could not be present all day and a great many of the party enjoyed a trip to the Lake. They departed in the late afternoon hoping to meet again next year but the date is not yet decided. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gammon, Ernest Gammon and Augusta Tracy of Westport, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Smith, Paris, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gammon and four children, Miss Lufkin and Mrs. Jennie Gammon of Rumford, Bertha Kenilworth, Mrs. Lolla Berry, South Paris, Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willberger, Bangor, Maine, and Frank Frost of Bangor, Mr. and Mrs. H. two of these delightful little spots of water set down amid low lying hills in the woods of the Pine Tree State, standing in the little Soudanville. Phoenix camps are set down on the big lake.

Over a good dirt road, built mainly by the Great Northern Paper Co., one may approach the camps by water to within the late afternoon. We embarked at the head of a dam, constructed of heavy logs, in such a manner as to allow five shovels to permit of the passage of a high water of spring tides. The passage of pulp wood down the Soudanishum stream. There at once came a complete change, both of scenery and method of locomotion. The buckboard was replaced by a through cut-over timber land of spruce and fir. The little trees were everywhere, sending up their pointed spires among the taller trees, and the forest was not the previous wilderness harvest. On the buckboard I could reach out, almost any minute, and break off a branch of the fragrant fir. There were also, growing in the same confusion, the spruce, the of Rochester fair, could duplicate that ride, would make a fortune. For a genuine shaking up, it would beat the whole lot of any other amusement device heretofore invented.

John Jones may never be a political orator, but he can guide horses. He does his job gently and well. He is right on the job every time. He gets out his part. That's more than many of us are able or are disposed to do.

The canoes were waiting for us at that point locally known as the cutt. Here the stream, very narrow, runs between steep walls of timber, for sliding logs down into the stream, there to continue to the saw mill their wilderness course down among the trees.

There was no boatman here, so we

The nefarious was closed, at the same place, last fall, a bull moose was accustomed to come down to the shore for a tender morsel among the lily pads, and was seen by many of the friendly Indians, for a few days, enjourned at the Sourdanuk camps, and were, at this point, transferred from buckboard to canoe. Elizabeth, especially, was anxious to see his moosehip. She also very much desired to meet a bear, and to see the gentle deer come down to the lake to drink. But a harmless and gentle green snake,

BOILING OVER ENTHUSIASM FALL HUNTING NEWS

"Been hunting more or less for 38 to 40 years and did something today I never did before. Killed two birds on the wing with one shot," thus spoke Capt. M. W. Sampson, recently.

"Can prove it by Tom Hinton, he was with me. Also his dog, 'Bang,' the best young dog I ever hunted with. He knows something. Dog been trained by Walter Hinton. It's a good one. It's a Poo-duck, you know where." Thus rambled on Moll in his glee to announce his two-lagger, one shot and the dog.

"Alfie French is coming Friday and I have some birds in store for his supper. He is some regular fellow! Like to get down here and hunt as he did when a boy. Some friends are coming with him. He's got to have his host-house foundation re-remastered ere the spring freshet washes it away. Hope Alfie expect to position him to do it."

He's promised to anyway, but you know Tim, he is busy with heaps of work and the days are growing short." Thus the Captain talked.

BOWLING
Four Horsemen 1033; All-Stars 1019

A lively bout in the candle pin game was bowled at Parrin's Alley, Monday evening in which the Four Horsemen defeated the All-Stars by a score of 1033 to 1019.

Duller of the Stellar aggregation, won high marks with 99 single and 284 for three strings but failed to lift his team to the position of honor at the end of the second string the outfit was split into pin apart, but in the last session the Horsemen applied the spurs and cleared the hurdle with a lead of 14 pairs.

FOUND ON SCRAP OF PAPER

On a piece of yellow paper picked up in the street, in this bit of information, it is signed "Mollie." And no doubt the person of someone attending the primary school.

"Orion"—He is about 7 inches long, not so large as the robin. His head, throat, back, tail and some of wings are black. His breast, shoulders, and under parts are yellowish orange. His nest is like a basket, hung down from a limb."

It is written with pencil and in a bold hand and we wonder how old the person who wrote it?

Hart True's orchestra played to a large crowd, Friday night at Hobson's Pavilion and on Saturday night, E. P. Hobson sold over 400 tickets at the door of his pavilion. Another dance next Saturday night.

Boys' and Girls' Club Contest

The annual contest of the Oxford County Boys' and Girls' Clubs was held Tuesday afternoon and evening at South Paris Grange Hall. A large number attended with many excellent exhibits displayed around the hall. Competition was keen, with the judges confronted with a difficult task of awarding prizes.

The program opened with an address of welcome by Ralph R. Butts, vice president of South Paris Board of Trade. Miss Charlotte Longley of Norway responded. After singing club songs and giving the cheers to arouse enthusiasm, C. Henry Sweet, South Paris, described in detail the trip to Springfield. After the lunch, served by the Merry Maids of South Paris, the young people attended a matinee performance at the Strand Theatre, and visited the high school. An appetizing oyster supper, provided by the South Paris Board of Trade and Merchants' Association, was served by the Grange. More cheers, remarks by the guests, and a social time, closed the exercises at an early hour, for many had long distances to travel. This was one of the most successful meetings ever held.

Prizes amounting to $250 were provided by the Paris Trust Co., South Paris Savings Bank, Norway National Bank, Norway Savings Bank, and Bethel Savings Bank. Lettie H. Shibles, state club leader, and Miss Mildred G. Brown, assistant leader, were the judges.

The Quaker Oil Stove is an entirely new type of heater. It makes oil heat, with all its advantages, available to homes without heating plants.

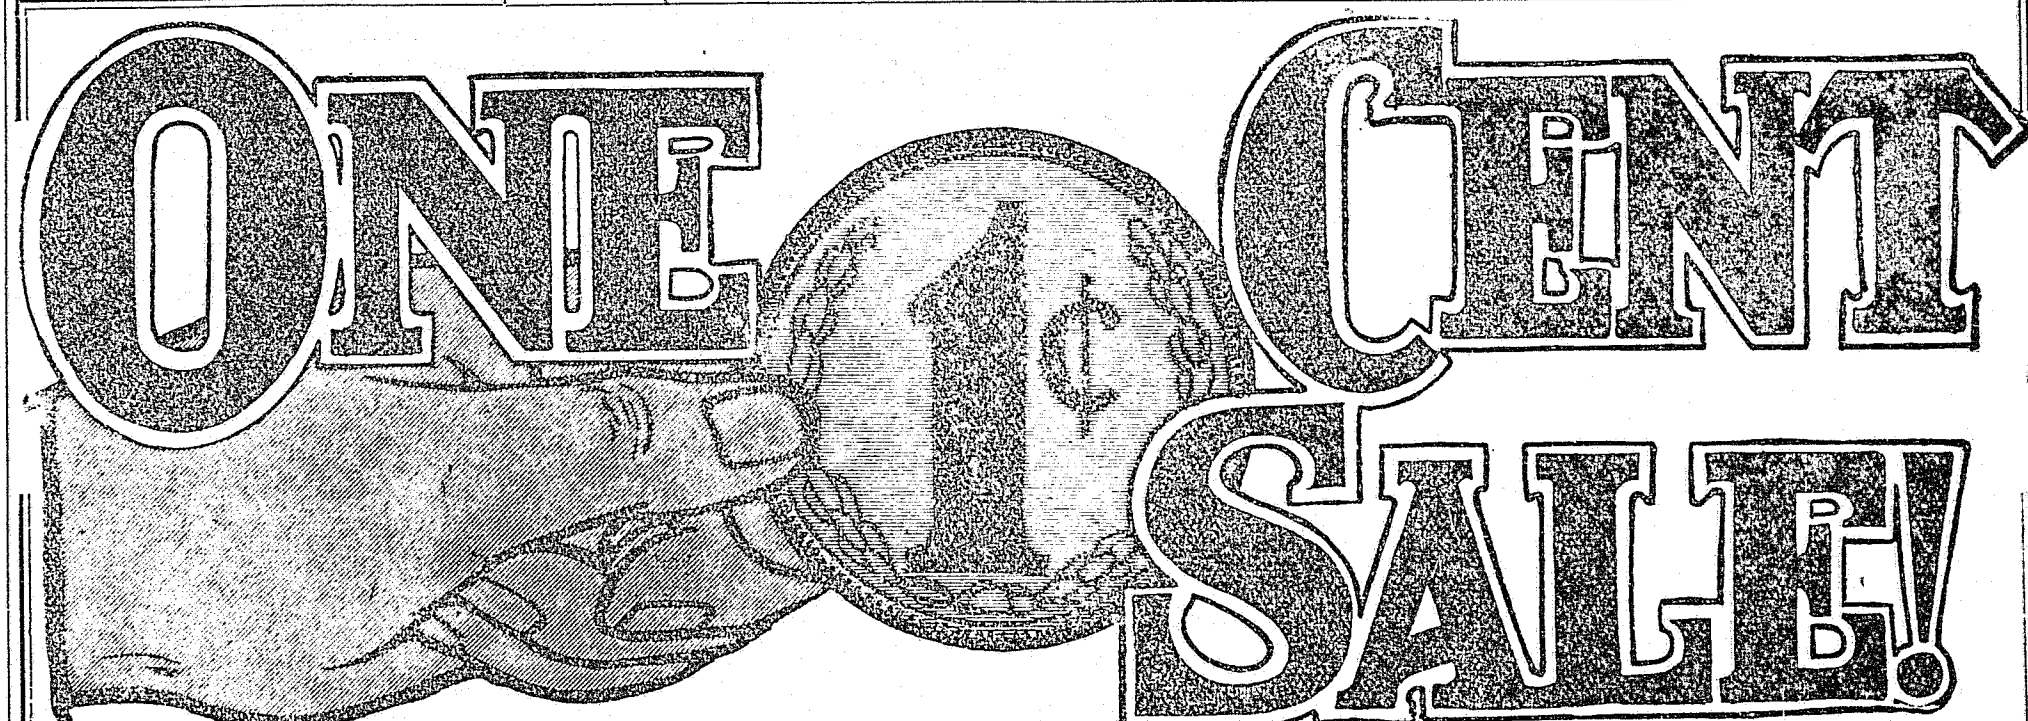

This stove eliminates dirt and labor from heating. It eliminates shovelling and carrying in coal, splitting wood, carrying out ashes, tending the stove. It enables you to start a fire in the morning or any time you need it by merely turning on the oil and dropping a lighted match or a piece of burning newspaper into the stove. It enables you to keep a low fire for mild days, a hot fire for cold days. It enables you to keep an overnight fire when you need it, without fuss or bother. The only way to start a fire in the morning or any time you need it by merely turning on the oil and dropping a lighted match or a piece of burning newspaper into the stove. The Quaker Oil Stove requires is that you keep it supplied with fuel. It is as easy to set up as a coal stove. It requires no special knowledge to operate it. Once installed, it will deliver unflinching heat just as you want it. And it is entirely noiseless.

The Quaker Oil Stove is extremely economical in operation, does not require the use of kerosene, but burns cheap 34-36 gravity oil—furnace oil of the type commonly used by oil burners and is that you keep it supplied with fuel. The price of the Quaker Oil Stove is ridiculously low. Despite the fact that it adds the greatest comfort to your home, the price is one everyone can afford.

Arrange to see it today "at the corner hardware store."

Sunday School Lesson
(By Rev. F. B. PRIZWATER, D.D., Dean of the University of Chicago, and Editor of the Christian Science Monitor.)
Lesson for October 17
MOSES HONORED IN HIS DEATH
LESSON TEXT—Deut. 34:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Freedom in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Sees the Promised Land.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses.
SENIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses.
IMMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses.
LESSONS FROM THE LIFE OF MOSES.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Death of Moses.
I. Moses Views the Promised Land.
From Mount Pisgah (vv. 1-4).
At the Lord's bidding Moses ascended the mountain from which he got a view of the promised land. He obeyed, though he knew that God was going to take him into the land (Deut. 32:50). He greatly desired to go into the land (Deut. 3:25), but he was not permitted to enter the land. God gave him a view in its fullest dimensions of the land which was to be the inheritance of the people which he had delivered out of Egypt for forty years. The reason given by the Lord for refusing an entrance into the land was Moses' failure to sanctify the Lord at Meribah (Deut. 32:51, cf. Num. 20:1-13). This was a sin for which the Lord was angry, though Moses had served Him faithfully for many years.
II. The Death and Burial of Moses (vv. 5-9).
1. His death (v. 5).
Though he died in the vigor of manhood, his work was done. He did not die before his time. God put him into the world for a purpose, and as soon as that work was done He called him home. Though Moses was a great man he was not exempt from death.
2. The burial of Moses (v. 6).
God buried him. Most likely this service was performed by the angels. Lately this is the story of a man who stands when the devil contended with Michael, the archangel, over the body of Moses (Deut. 34:9).
3. The time of mourning for Moses (v. 8).
They mourned for thirty days. It is not wrong to lay away earthly friends even with tears, but as Christians we should not mourn as those who have no hope. Indeed, it is much better to express our appreciation and love for our friends by showing the proper courtesy and respect while they are alive, than to mourn over them when they are dead.
III. The Successor of Moses (v. 9).
Joshua, who had been the minister of Moses during all the years of the wilderness journey, now became the military leader of the Israelites. That Joshua was a fit man as a leader of the Israelites is seen in the fact that he was full of the spirit of wisdom.
While the Lord is not dependent upon human wisdom, He does select as His representatives men whom He has endowed with the proper wisdom.
2. He was divinely ordained for the work at the hand of Moses, "for Moses laid his hands upon him."
3. This he had done at the command of God (Num. 27:15-21).
4. The people owned him as their leader. "The children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the Lord commanded Moses."
In order for successful leadership a ruler must have the individual affection and allegiance of the people.
IV. Encomium Upon Moses (vv. 10-12).
In this eulogy Moses is given a place at the head of the Old Testament prophets. With the exception of the Greater Prophet (Deut. 18:15-18), of whom Moses was a type, he stands as the greatest prophet of Israel.
1. He was great because of his intimacy with God (v. 10), "whom the Lord knew face to face."
2. He was great in that he gave to the world a code of laws unequalled in the world's history.
3. He was great as a general in that he liberated the Israelite nation from the oppression of the greatest nation of the earth.
4. He was great because he led two or three million Israelites through the desert for forty years.
5. He was great because he gave to us in the book of Deuteronomy three orations which, according to the judgment of competent critics, stand at the head of the world's literature.
Faith
What a wonderful ship is faith. She discovers worlds beyond anything found by Columbus. What a freight she carries. Riches beyond the treasures of Solomon's ships of gold. To what a glorious realm she transports—W. L. Watkinson.
Looking Into the Future
When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each one of us to do, we realize after all what a beautiful thing it is to work, and to live to be happy.—Robert Louis Stevenson.
Shining and Singing
You may sing "O for the wings of a dove" but it is better to shine in the ways of God. Shining is the best kind of singing, and makes the singer sing to purpose.—Prophetic News.
It is said that "ox-warble" fly does attack not only cattle, but also men and children. They generally sting cattle in the hoof, the grubs hatch and work their way around through the body. With the men and children the grubs work their way from the legs through the body to the back, stomach, root of tongue and teeth. Fly-Tox against ox-warble fly. Journey on Unfamiliar Nearby Roads
We recently rode 87 miles and more than 50 of them were on unfamiliar country roads. It was of a Sunday and few autos were out. Only two or three for 20 or more miles. The roads, with few exceptions, were good.
We went over the cement road to the junction of the old road leading to Oxford. Took road over Allen Hill, passed the South Holbrook farm, with its pile of apple trees beside the stone wall. The trees were loaded with fruit. Many of the limbs were propped up. Some apples had been gathered.
We passed by the Cyrus Hayes farm on Oxford on the way to East Otisfield or "Pugglyville" as it is locally known, thence to Spur's Corner and on to the head of Pleasant Pond. Took the left hand road and passed on the easterly side of that water, coming out the road over Mayberry Hill in Casco, where a beautiful view of the lake is had. On the easterly shores of Pleasant Pond are several summer schools. Camp Truda among them.
We visited with Deputy Sheriff, G. B. Maybury, 81, a one armed soldier of the rebellion. Should he finish the term for "Pugglyville" as it is locally known, he will have served 14 consecutive years. He is to be in Portland this week and have charge of the Grand Jury at the October term of court. Mr. Maybury is a member of the Casco board of selectmen, also secretary of the Little Nigaw cattle fair and for one past eighty, he has few equals if any, in the State. He has two sons, Everts, lives in South Paris, and Roscoe, with him on the farm, and is a partner with Mr. Hancock in the manufacture of a patent fly screen for doors and windows. The mill is located at Casco.
This village really shows marked improvement in the past ten years. Several new houses have been built and others have been painted and fixed over. We imagine it is largely due to the influx of summer people. Especially the summer school located on the shores of Pleasant Pond. Besides the "schools," there are many private camps. Jim Eastman's farm house has become an "Inn" and is much changed.
We drove down to the old fair grounds. The fences are no more, neither is the Hall or Grand Stand. There is evidence of the race track. The ground has recently been used for the piling or sticking of sawed lumber. Much evidence of that is present. The building farm house is occupied and the store and gas tank is open for trade on week days.
E. A. Barton, deputy sheriff and Advertiser correspondent, has passed to the unknown some years ago. We used to stop with him during our sojourn and race program selling adventures on the fair grounds. It was, however, thirty years ago. Many changes in that time.
We retraced our way back to Casco village and followed the west shore road to Spur's Corner, Otisfield. Here on an unknown road was taken. It lay west of the Bell Hill road. Where it went, we knew not, but the direction seemed right. We finally arrived in Bolster's Mills, coming down a steep hill where the road had been recently improved.
We recall some years ago of getting lost in Otisfield and finding it difficult to talk the Finn language. This time we made no inquiry but kept going. We didn't come down the same hill into Bolster's Mills that we did formerly. The road this time came out of that town further south. What it's called we can't say. John Walker of Harrison and Poland Springs tells us it's the John Green Hill. He ought to know.
From Bolster's Mills, which Crooked River divides as to town lines, we followed the Harrison road to "travertine corner" near the old Summer Davis farm. Crossing the main road, we went almost to Island Pond and turning to the left, followed a rocky trail over ledges and rocks for nearly a mile before coming to a house. It may have been the road that comes into Baker Hill, Waterford road, at the Millett farm, but it seemed too far west for that road.
We soon saw water in front and turned into the first right hand road and were on the east side of Thomas Pond, in Waterford. It is now called Kooka Lake by summer guests and they are numerous in this vicinity during the hot spell.
John Walker is our authority for saying we came into Waterford from Island Pond, over Temple Hill.
Deacon Morse's farm buildings and wind mill were recognized at the end of a road. We wonder if he has a big lot of McIntosh Reds this fall? We kept straight on to the Five Corners, now minus a schoolhouse. Here we crossed the direct road to Norway. We wanted to see Will Chadbourne's farm. He is a pine tree lumberman. We bore to the left and missed it. The car followed a narrow, bush-grown trail for half a mile or so and came to a good set of buildings on the right. It was the home of a Finn with a large family. Fortunately one of the young men could talk our language. We were told that we were on Hemlock Hill in Waterford. He didn't seem much acquainted with the geography of the locality or Will Chadbourne. He said, keep straight on down the hill and we'd come to the Waterford state road. It was all right for a car. He drove his car over it. A big car was sitting in the doorway. T. S. Sanderson lived on this farm some fifty years ago. J. E. Bryant was a neighbor a little distance back near where the road turned to Mr. Chadbourne's. There are no buildings visible or at least we failed to see them.
The road came down a steep, wooded hill. Trees covering and arching in the roadway, which finally lead to plains land fairly well covered with pines and cut up with trails. We kept to the right showing the Waterford road leading to Bisbetown.
Here we were acquainted and knew the way to Norway.

Fire Damaged Holden Hall—Remains of Mrs. John M. Gould Buried in Riverside—B. B. Richardson and Family from Ipswich, Mass. Visiting Here.
Miss Luella Boothby of Melrose, Mass., has been a guest of Mrs. O. M. Mason and daughter, Alice Mason.
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dunn were here recently, on account of the illness of their mother, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Asa Bartlett.
The damage to Holden Hall was greater than at first estimated when a fire which started in the laundry, Thursday evening, although it was subdued shortly smoke and water extended to other rooms so there are six at least to be repaired, as well as damaged walls and roof, and utensils.
D. G. Brooks and Mrs. Brooks were in Boston, recently.
Clyde Bean, wife and daughter, Abigail, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Bean's mother, Mrs. Albert Richardson, daughter, Mrs. Blanche Howe and family over the week end. Their home is in Gorham, N. H.
Several from Bethel Grange attended Pomona Grange which met with Bear Mt. Grange, South Waterford.
The friends of Charles Becker are sorry for his continued illness. Mr. Becker was taken ill while directing the work on the state road in Albany as he is commissioner in that town.
E. F. Peterkin was in Roxbury and Andover, recently.
The remains of Mrs. John M. Gould of Portland were brought here for burial in Riverside Cemetery, Friday, Oct. 8. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Richardson, whose home was in the little village of Mayville. Her husband, Major John Gould, survives her, also a brother, Dr. Herbert Twichell, and sister, Mrs. Horatio Upton, and two sons. The sad fate of her daughter Anna, is remembered by many. Mrs. Gould has had a long, useful life. Her husband, Major J. M. Gould, sons Oliver and Theodore and families, accompanied the remains to the cemetery, where many friends and relatives had assembled to pay tribute. Burial services were held, conducted by the Rev. S. T. Achenbach.
Many attended the "World's Fair" at North Waterford and report a big crowd, and a fine display in the hall by the granges and other exhibitors. The desire to meet old friends and new, and make more friends, draws a crowd, and that's where the "World's Fair" comes in.
Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Peterkin and daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Philbrick, attended the Waterford Fair.
It is reported that Albert Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Kimball, although very ill, shows a slight improvement, as the fever has turned for the better.
B. B. Richardson, Mrs. Richardson and daughter, Marion, spent a week with his mother, Mrs. Albert Richardson, and sister, Mrs. Winfield Howe, and family. While here, he took his mother, who is now 80, on a trip to Harrison, through Rangeley Lake. One feature much enjoyed was the beautiful oats, provided by the thoughtful matrons of the party. This was decided by one vote, which was cast by the driver, Mr. Richardson, whose home is in Ipswich, Mass.
The Brown Red Farm are to have two thousand chicks this week for winter broilers, being shipped from Durham, N. H.

Concrete Barnyards
Pay for Themselves
PERMANENT, sanitary, and economical in every way, Concrete paved barnyards pay for themselves over and over. They save all the manure—liquid and solid.
Any kind of stock fed on a Concrete Floor gains greater weight and gains it more rapidly.
Concrete barnyards put an end to tramping around in mud. That's important in more ways than one. The women folks deserve this consideration. You know they hate muddy boots.
You can easily build Concrete improvements by following a few simple directions given in "Concrete on the Dairy Farm." Write for this free booklet today.
